The Honorable Tracy Stone-Manning
Director
Bureau of Land Management
1849 C Street NW
Washington, D.C. 20240

RIN: 1004-AE92
Submitted via Regulations.gov

Docket No.: LLHQ230000.23X.L117000000.PN0000

Dear Director Stone-Manning,

As a livestock producer, I am extremely concerned by the Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) new proposed rule "Conservation and Landscape Health." BLM's mission is to balance the multiple uses of our nation's public lands including recreation, energy, and livestock grazing. This proposed rule violates the multiple use mandate and gives "conservation" the ability to override and exclude other uses that the agency or a third party consider "incompatible." No other use of public lands has this much power – and BLM should not be able to create this struggle now.

Worse, the proposed rule will make landscape health worse, not better. Public lands grazing is an important tool for managing these landscapes and grazing improves soil, plant, and wildlife health, decreases invasive species like cheatgrass, and boosts carbon storage. Additionally, grazing helps reduce the buildup of grasses and other fuels that contribute to catastrophic wildfire. Studies estimate that reducing fuel loads and fire risks costs the federal government $150 per acre, but grazing does this at no cost to the taxpayer.

I am also concerned that the proposed rule opens BLM to the risk of exploitation and more litigation in the future. BLM is already falling short of delivering on basic agency responsibilities. Adding additional one-off, individual approvals of conservation leases will only put the agency further behind on other permit approvals, including grazing permits. BLM has attempted to change their entire management objectives with no analysis under the National Environmental Policy Act and no analysis on how this rule would cripple small businesses and rural communities.

BLM repeatedly failed in their commitment to work with stakeholders like ranchers. Not only was there no advanced notice or discussion with organizations I support like the Public Lands Council and National Cattlemen's Beef Association, BLM held just three briefings. These briefings were offered only in major urban areas, far from the rural communities that will be impacted by this rule.

I urge you to withdraw this rule until the agency has a chance to hear from the farmers and ranchers who will be impacted by it. Farmers and ranchers are original conservationists of these lands and I hope you will listen to our insights before crafting sweeping regulations that impact our public lands.

Sincerely,

768 American Farmers and Ranchers
